DAVID L. McARTHUR, President of the Maryville College
Alumni Association

Dear Fellow Alumni:

This job with the Alumni Association is just about over, and it has been pleasant and not too difficult. It has, however, brought those of us who are on the Executive Committee face-to-face with one fact: to keep the College going financially in this era of almost limitless funds available for state schools and high prices for every commodity, is extremely difficult. We who are alumni will be interested to know that our contributions have helped out immeasurably with the operating expenses of the College this year.

Total fees for boarding students are approximately $750 per year. I think that we all feel that if fees are not kept comparatively low, one of the basic purposes of the College is gone. Yet this fee represents only a part of the total actually spent on each student. The present endowment of the College is approximately $2,300,000. Compare this with the endowment of nearly $4,500,000 at Wooster and a similar amount at the University of the South (Sewanee). Or with Vanderbilt's $39,000,000!

Our endowment return is steady and good, but operating expenses are higher than student fees and the income from endowment. This is why the money we give each month is a real help to the College. If we study these figures and take into consideration the influence of another graduating class this year, we realize that it will be entirely possible to reach an increased goal in another year. The College needs that $20,000 from us in 1956-7.

Another fact is clear to us. Even after increases in salaries are made, according to present plans, the faculty and staff will still be giving thousands of dollars to our Alma Mater as they work at the College. Probably each of them could make more money elsewhere. It is because Alumni appreciate their work that the Alumni Bulletin begins with this issue a series about faculty members. It is small recognition, but it is one way of showing our appreciation to each of them.

Sincerely

DAVID L. McARTHUR.

Dear Alumni of Maryville College:

1. First of all — Our Gratitude: Since the contents of the last "Alumni Bulletin" were written, Mrs. Lloyd and I have been the recipients of many kind words and deeds in recognition of the twenty-fifth anniversary of our coming to live and work at Maryville. Plans for observance of the 1955 Founders' and Homecoming Day as an Anniversary Day were well along last spring and summer before we knew of them. Directors, faculty, staff, students, alumni, and other friends were quite overwhelming with courtesy and good will. Activities ranged all the way from the Founders' Day address by the Deputy Assistant to the President of the United States, a testimonial dinner by colleagues and friends, and a citation by the Directors, to floats and dormitory room decorations representing episodes in the twenty-five years. Mrs. Lloyd and I are deeply grateful, and even after these months we wish to take this opportunity to express our thanks and to pledge again our unreserved dedication to the College. We shall always prize the beautiful brochure which was printed and distributed.

2. Other Twenty-Five Year Folk. On another page is a picture taken last fall of those members of the Maryville faculty and staff who have served twenty-five years or more. Those with me in the picture have been with me throughout my years as President. They represent many phases of the College's program — as teachers and in other capacities. Their names are printed with the picture, but most of you will not need a list of names because you have been students in their time here. A considerable number of others on the faculty and staff have served twenty or fifteen or ten years. To all these who are making a long and loyal contribution to the mission of Maryville College, I wish to record my genuine and grateful appreciation.

3. Racial Integration at Maryville College is making satisfactory progress. Throughout its history the College has accepted all qualified applicants from all races, except that between 1901 and 1954 the State of Tennessee by a rigid law adopted in 1901 prohibited the attendance of white and Negro students together in either public or private schools and colleges in Tennessee (sixteen other states in the South also had segregation laws). Maryville had Negro students before 1901 and after the U. S. Supreme Court decision of 1954 admitted them again. There were six in attendance last year and there are seven this year, with one girl in the dormitory and the others living at their homes in Maryville and Alcoa. In January we secured the part time services of a Negro member of the Knoxville College faculty, Mr. Hamlett, to teach two courses in Spanish during Mr. Schwam's absence this semester on Sabbatical Leave. All of this program is going forward smoothly and happily on the campus.

I have received letters from alumni, friends, and strangers expressing various degrees of approval and disapproval of our policy. Most alumni who have written or spoken of the matter commend the steps we have taken as representing both the Christian principle and the courage which they esteem in their Alma Mater.

It seems to many of us that under the circumstances no other course would be right or consistent for Maryville College as an institution dedicated to Christian faith and practice and related to the Church of the living God as He is known in Christ. All leading Church denominations in America (north and south) and in the world, Protestant and Catholic, have declared officially (no matter how many individual persons or congregations may still declare or practice otherwise) that required segregation is un-Christian. It seems to me also that Maryville's "timing" has been wise, although some have criticized us for not "waiting until a more favorable time." I am firmly convinced that having our decision behind us rather than before us is fortunate since no one knows how long it will be until the time is favorable. Maryville's prompt and sincere action gives her special opportunity for a pioneering leadership and service.

4. The Famous Ford Foundation Grant of $260 million to 615 "regionally accredited, privately supported liberal arts and science colleges and universities in the United States, to help them raise teachers' salaries" is a magnificent benefaction, is a material assistance and encouragement to the colleges, and may well set a good pattern for other large donors. The tentative amount announced by the Ford Foundation for Maryville College is $148,500, although no funds will be received before July when it is expected that one half will become available with the other half being provided a year later. The fund is to be held as endowment for at least ten years and only the income used, which means that after our full amount is received and invested we shall have each year an additional $5,740 at 4% or $7,425 at 5%, to spread over teachers' salaries (we now have 58 teachers). Obviously this will not raise salaries very far and will not solve the difficult problem of college salaries. But the overall grant is a noble one and represents a real "priming of the pump." We are making careful plans to take advantage of this "priming" as far as possible.

5. Judge Arthur E. Mitchell of Knoxville, a member of our Board of Directors for thirty years, and at one time athletic coach at Maryville College, died January 9, 1956. Before a break in health some years ago, he was Chairman of the Directors' important Committee on Finance. Although unable to help very much since that time, he remained a valuable member of the Directors and attended the meeting last fall. He is one of a noble company of strong men who have served the College without compensation because of belief in its principles and work.

6. The New Dormitory is not as far along as I hoped it would be by now — chiefly because the estimated costs have increased and we hesitate to incur further debt until the balances due on the Heating Plant, which was of necessity enlarged some years ago at a cost of over $90,000, and the Chapel have been paid. The architects have produced a very interesting design, with an estimated cost of $330,000, exclusive of architects' fees and furnishings. Toward this we have cash on hand amounting to $182,978. It is necessary to think in big figures now. (Pearsons cost only $41,000.) We are working on this.

7. Architectural Forum, published by Time, Inc. and one of the world's greatest professional journals for architects, carried a six page article, with pictures, covering the Samuel Tyndale Wilson Chapel, in its April issue. It sent a photographer to the College back in November. Four years ago the other principal architects' journal, Architectural Record, carried a feature article on the Fine Arts Center which made it famous all over the world. Doubtless the present publication will spread the fame of the Chapel (including the Theatre).

8. The Buck-of-the-Month-Club has had a most encouraging first year under the hearty and capable direction of Mr. James W. Hampton, our Public Relations Secretary. I am grateful to him and to the large number of alumni who are creating a valuable new support for the College.

Sincerely yours,

Ralph W. Lloyd

COMMENCEMENT - 1956

It's Spring here on the Hill. Nature is stirring with new life. The azaleas are in bloom, the dogwood is beautiful, the campus which you remember so well is at its best.

The College is stirring too with new life—new hopes—new plans. The future is bright with hope, the fulfillment of dreams; there is an anticipatory atmosphere of greater things to come.

The City of Maryville itself is bursting at the seams. One major annexation of adjacent territory last fall increased the population by nearly one-third. Another major addition is impending, which, if approved, will have the effect of nearly doubling the population of the City of Maryville within a little more than a year. There are new homes in every direction, fanning out over the countryside. There are beautiful new motels, fine new restaurants.

At the 137th Commencement, hundreds of Alumni will return to the campus to see for themselves this new Maryville, this new spirit, this enthusiasm for the future. On the campus, an attitude of active cooperation reflects in large measure a new alumni spirit.

Alumni are already writing to find out plans for class reunions. The Scotty-Gram will keep you posted on developments. Suffice it to say that many groups are already actively making plans for the occasion.

Why not plan to be here? You will thrill to the new Chapel-Theatre, if you haven't seen it yet. If you have, you'll still be proud of it. Incidentally, the April issue of the ARCHITECTURAL FORUM is featuring the building.

You'll thrill too with the spirit of the Maryville College student, 1956 model. The years pass, times change—so do we!—jets fly overhead to remind us of the Atomic Age, but the fundamental things that have made Maryville great do not change. Your Alma Mater remains steadfast in a disturbed world, still dedicated to a Christian ideal 2000 years old, with constant emphasis upon superior scholarship and no lessening of the desire to place educational opportunities within the reach of all youth interested in the Maryville plan of education.

Bring your family back to the Hill. Introduce your future Maryvillians to the College: your past, their future.

FACULTY NEWS

Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz, Professor of Home Economics, is on Sabbatical Leave this semester for study at Ohio University, Athens, Ohio.

Mr. J. Howard Schwam, Assistant Professor of Spanish, is on Sabbatical Leave this semester for study at Columbia University.

Mr. Harter and Miss Rodemann are on leave for the full year, Mr. Harter in New York and Miss Rodemann at the University of Illinois.

As usual, a good many faculty members have attended meetings of one sort or another. During the Christmas vacation Miss Martin attended meetings in Chicago of the Modern Language Association of America and the American Association of Teachers of Spanish and Portuguese, and Miss Cartledge attended the meeting of the National Association of Biblical Instructors in New York. She and Dr. Buchanan attended the regional meeting of the association at Guilford College in March. Last fall Miss Cartledge and Dr. Case attended the Campus Christian Life Conference, sponsored by the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, at Lindenwood College, Missouri. Mr. Hampton attended a conference of Presbyterian College Public Relations Directors at Chicago. It was sponsored by the Presbyterian College Union and the Board of Christian Education.

Miss Davies represented the College at the annual meeting of the National Association of Schools of Music in St. Louis. In April she will attend the Southeast Central Regional meeting of AAUW, in Nashville, and as President of the Tennessee State Division, the hostess division, she will have a major part. Miss Martin is State Secretary, Miss Crews State Publicity Chairman, and Miss Hunter State Membership Chairman, and all three will probably attend the Nashville meeting. In June Miss Davies will go to Washington, D. C., for a week's conference of the forty-eight State Presidents.

Miss Guss went to Atlanta in February for a conference of Lutheran college teachers in Southeast United States. Four of the English faculty, Misses Heron, Jackson, and Johnson, and Mr. Bushing attended the Tennessee Philological Association meeting at Lincoln Memorial University. Mr. Bushing read a paper on "Works of Philosophy in Fielding's Library." Mr. Tolar attended the Mathematics Association of America meeting at Georgia Tech.

Miss Crews attended the Tennessee Education Association and Tennessee Music Educators Association meetings in Chattanooga. She is State String Chairman and had charge of the string teachers' section. Miss Miles attended the Tennessee State meeting of the D.A.R. in Gatlinburg in March and the annual National Congress in Washington in April. Miss Massey attended the National Association of Deans of Women in Cincinnati. President Lloyd, Dean McClelland, and Mr. Hampton represented Maryville College at the Tennessee College Association. President Lloyd in December attended the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and in January the Presbyterian College Union and the Association of American Colleges.

Recently Radio Monitor broadcast a talk by Dr. Hunter on linguistics in East Tennessee. Several alumni in various parts of the country have reported hearing him.

After Professor Sisk's death last February 1, his students, as a memorial to him, gave new lights for the math classroom. These were installed in the summer and on November 16 a simple memorial service was held at chapel followed by a brief dedication service in his classroom. It was held at a time when Mrs. Sisk could be present.

Beth Hilbert (Mrs. Louis W. Hilbert, Jr.), who worked in the Personnel Office during the war, is living in Des Moines, where Mr. Hilbert is connected with the Methodist Church Board. They have two children.

NEW FACULTY AND STAFF

In the October Alumni Issue of the Maryville College Bulletin eleven new members of the faculty and staff were listed. Since that time the following additional new members have been appointed:

S. E. Hening, Acting Treasurer. Mr. Hening's home is now in Sperryville, Virginia, where he has lived since his retirement after seven years as National Treasurer of the American Baptist Home Mission Society with offices in New York. He was for many years with the YMCA, in China, Europe, Pittsburgh, New York. He came to Maryville because of his special interest in Christian higher education and is dividing his time between the financial program of the College in the office and in the field. He came to Maryville at the middle of October.

Robert J. Boyd, Assistant Treasurer. Mr. Boyd recently retired as Acting Director of the Banking and Investment Savings Bond Division, U. S. Treasury Department, Washington, D. C. Previously he had been Secretary and Treasurer of the Newark Trust Co., Newark, Delaware, and Vice President and Cashier of the Security Bank, Washington, D. C. Mr. and Mrs. Boyd came to Maryville February 15.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY BREAKFAST

The Maryville College Breakfast at General Assembly will be on Saturday, May 26, at 7:15 a.m. in the Tabernacle Presbyterian Church. The Assembly is meeting in Philadelphia this year. There will be posters at the auditorium on which to sign up or reservations may be made through the Rev. Dr. John Magill, '39, Abington Presbyterian Church, Old York Road, Abington, Pennsylvania. Rev. Donald R. Killian, '38, of Woodstown, New Jersey, chairman of the Philadelphia Alumni Club, has asked Dr. Magill to take charge of arrangements for the breakfast.

ALUMNI CLUBS

There has been much activity among the Maryville College Alumni groups in the past few months, and in several cases, meetings are still being scheduled before the end of the academic year.

On October 29, approximately twenty Alumni in the Birmingham area met for dinner before the Maryville-Howard game. Members present ranged from the Class of '07 to the Class of '55. Plans were discussed for future meetings and activities, and the following officers were elected:

Mrs. W. G. Pledger, (Frances Easley, '28), chairman.

Miss Martha Robison, '26, vice chairman.

Mrs. James P. Lester, (Alice Huddleston, '51), secretary.

On November 5, a group of fifty-four people gathered at George Fischbach's Circle F Dude Ranch in Lake Wales, Florida, for the annual get-together of the Florida alumni. The week-end of relaxation was featured by the banquet Saturday night held more or less simultaneously with the campus Homecoming celebration. Tape recordings were played with greetings from Dr. Lloyd and numbers by the Choir. Officers elected for the new year were:

George Haynes, '41, chairman.

Marjorie Jones Spilatore, '33, vice chairman

Bernice Jones Holm, '22, secretary-treasurer.

Other alumni groups met in connection with the Lloyd anniversary celebration. The Capitol City Alumni met in Washington, and according to John Tope, the group, while small, had a fine time, and the recordings were excellent. The Washington alumni are working on a scholarship idea, with Paul Kidder, the chairman of the Capitol City Alumni, concentrating on details for the project with the aid of Homer McCann, Harry Wood, and John Tope.

From the Coast, the Rev. James P. Shaw, chairman of the Golden Gate Alumni Club, wrote that the group enjoyed the recordings, but that it "takes the drawing power of Dr. Lloyd in person to get them out in substantial numbers."

Donald R. Killian, chairman of the Philadelphia area Alumni Association, writes that there will be a banquet there late in April. Dr. Lloyd will be in Philadelphia at that time, and will be present.

From New York comes word via Chairman Don Briggs that the New York group will convene on Thursday, April 19. Alumni President Dave McArthur will be present to address the group. Dave is also scheduled to meet with Alumni in Washington the week previous to his New York visit.

CHOIR TRIPS

The Choir sang in Birmingham and Chattanooga this year, after an absence of several years from those cities. On Saturday evening, April 21, they were at the First Presbyterian Church of East Lake, Birmingham; on Sunday morning, April 22, at Ensley Highlands Presbyterian Church; on Sunday afternoon at the Edgewood Presbyterian Church; and on Sunday evening at the Sixth Avenue Presbyterian Church. On Monday evening, April 23, they sang at the Northside Presbyterian Church, in Chattanooga.

The Choir has also made short trips in this area: on March 18 they sang at Rockwood and Harriman, on March 25 at Oak Ridge and Graystone Presbyterian Church, Knoxville, on April 8 at Second Church, Knoxville, and on a Knoxville TV station.

Their home concert will be on the evening of May 6 in the Samuel Tyndale Wilson Chapel.

The Madrigal Singers, a group of twelve choir members, were on the program of the Tennessee State D.A.R. meeting in Gatlinburg about the middle of March.

Mr. John Hutton, Jr., is director of the Choir this year, while Mr. Harter is on Sabbatical Leave.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER QUADRENNIAL

Nineteen Maryville College students attended the Ecumenical Student Conference on the Christian World Mission at Athens, Ohio, December 27 to January 1. This 17th Quadrennial Conference was held under the auspices of the Student Volunteer Movement, which serves as the Commission on World Mission of the United Student Christian Council and is a unit of the National Council of Churches. About 1300 of the 3500 students attending were students from other countries who are now studying in the United States. Altogether 92 countries were represented. Four of Maryville's delegation were from foreign countries—one from Indonesia and three from Korea.

In the fall these nineteen and other interested students met weekly for study in preparation for the conference and now they are meeting in follow-up study. The theme of the conference was "Revolution and Reconciliation."

In Retrospect

This is the first of a series by members of the Maryville College Faculty. We asked Dr. Orr for some information about himself for this article. The result was so interesting and so completely Dr. Orr that we are reprinting it in its entirety. To make even a minute change in what he has written would be virtually a sacrilege.

I was pastor of a small church at Normandy, Tennessee, and came to Knoxville in early October, 1919, to attend a meeting of Synod. I came over to Maryville College to have a look at the campus where I had graduated in June, 1912. In Anderson Hall I ran into Dr. Wilson, who invited me into his office for a chat. I soon found myself being invited to come to Maryville to teach, but promptly refused because I was in no sense prepared to teach, had no qualifications as a teacher that anyone so far as I knew had ever recognized, and besides, I didn't want to teach anyway.

But Dr. Wilson refused to accept my decision as final and suggested that I go back home and think it over. I could let him know any time before Christmas if I was interested. So I came. I told myself that it was for a five-year period, and that I was coming because I was interested in a study program which I was already finding I could easily slight in the routine of a not too demanding parish. It was certain that I would have to study if I tried to teach. I knew so little there would be absolutely no alternative. I had spoken the truth so honestly when I told Dr. Wilson I was not prepared to teach that I came here feeling oppressively inadequate. I imagined that everybody connected with the college in any way who knew me must be thinking about what a pity it was that M.C. affairs had come to such a pass as to require me as part of the teaching staff.

Soon the after-the-war heresy excitement was full upon us and, naturally in my position and my insecure place in that position, I was on the spot intellectually. Questions galore were hotly argued everywhere, questions about the millenium, questions about Virgin birth, questions about the authority of Scripture, questions about evolution, the "monkey" trials at Dayton, Dr. Fosdick's troubles with the Presbyterians in New York—everything. I was invited to become a signer of the Auburn Affirmation, which I refused to do for policy reasons; and so it went, but plainly I was compelled to read wide and furiously about many things. All this piled on top of grim day-to-day classroom preparation meant that there was no longer any trouble about adequate motivation for study; so study became a habit which I kept up.

One result was that a feeling grew in me that I was probably a heretic by the standards the college had a right to expect me to maintain. So I wrote out my resignation, with reasons, and took it to Dr. Wilson's home to hand it in. When I gave it to him, he refused to look at it and simply dropped it on the fire in the open grate. He hoped, he said, that I would stay at Maryville until my hair became as white as his then was, and added that if, at any time, I myself decided that I was "going to the devil" I might quietly obtain a job somewhere else and announce that I was withdrawing to accept another position. That ended any queasy feeling about the relation of my heresy, if any, to administration policy and I stayed on. When Dr. Lloyd came, he continued to give full support to my seeking the truth and teaching it as I saw it. He asked me no questions and never tried to give indirect guidance by giving me his own answers to any.

It must have been because I hadn't the sense to know I could refuse that I agreed to become Secretary of the Alumni Association at Dr. Wilson's request. But the college was shorthanded in those days and everybody had to pitch in—without any extra pay, of course. Now I wrestled with mailing lists, alumni dues, the alumni banquet, and the like, with no particular success. We launched—I suppose at the suggestion of Dr. Wilson—what we called the Alumni Athletic Fund, and one summer Dr. Hunter and I carried on a letter campaign for funds to build the Alumni Gym and to level and grade the athletic field. Something like $25,000 as I remember it, was raised in this, and perhaps other, ways. But when I came back from doing special work at Northwestern University I had no desire to return to the alumni office. I had decided that if a teacher succeeded in his classroom he could stay on the payroll, and that if a teacher did not succeed in his classroom it made small difference what else he might be good at, so I would stick to my teaching and let others, better prepared, do the other things.

There was a growing interest in Christian Education during the 1920's—at the time we called it "Religious Education." I devised a fantastic scheme by which the churches of Synod might be called upon to finance the work—a sort of buck of the church idea—which Dr. Wilson promptly, and somewhat indignantly I thought, vetoed. Maryville, he said, would not go out to make a special appeal to the churches as if it had a prior right above other colleges. But to my surprise in the circumstances he was already interested, or became interested, in having the work done and in finding a way to finance it, so I was allowed to begin the first classes. When the Synott Fund became available, and I had returned from Northwestern I became the first "Professor of Religious Education."

In due time Dr. Gillingham was leaving and I became head of the department. After all, I was here, and who else was there? Somewhere along the way my brother, Rev. E. L. Orr, D.D., became Synodical Executive in this area, and he and I had much talk about the comparatively small return that was being realized from the expenditure of Sabbath School Mission funds in this immediate area, and about the desirability of making use of the potential resources provided by college students who were eager for service outlets in the community. He found the Sabbath School Missions department of the Board of Home Missions receptive to the idea of trying to do something different here, so the Maryville College Parish was launched, and I served as the chairman and treasurer of the General Committee during all the years until changing conditions made reorganization necessary. Reorganization took place because it became evident in recent years that the work had to be enlarged and refinanced or abandoned; we simply couldn't carry on without more money; the small operating budget provided by the college and the Inter-Board Commission of the church wouldn't keep us afloat. Thus it was that Dr. Case and I—Dr. Case had long been actively directing the work of students in the project—started negotiations which led at last to the refinancing of the work and the employment of two full time ministers in active charge of it, and the location of administrative responsibility for it in a committee of Union Presbytery. It is now Faith Cooperative Parish, with two members of the college staff permanently on its Executive Committee.

During World War II I became Stated Clerk of Union Presbytery; and later on for a time, Stated Clerk of the Synod of Mid-South. Then I got ulcers!

Along the way interest in philosophy grew. There had been none here except Ethics and Theism, when I came, and for many years thereafter. But people were discovering that some wrong answers must have been given to questions which philosophy deals with and became interested to see if they could find out what they were. Then Dean Barnes died and I was asked to take the Ethics class. Why I should have been asked I shall never know, to say nothing of knowing why I undertook it; but I did.

Along with that it was natural I suppose that I should have launched most of the other courses in philosophy which now make up the philosophy offering. So I find myself listed in the catalog as "Professor of Religion and Philosophy, and Chairman of the Division of Bible, Philosophy and Education." I recognize of course that catalogs have to make things sound as important as possible but always feel about that title very much the same way I felt about coming to Maryville in the first place—flabbergasted.

And that is the way it has always been. It seems that I have always been pushed into things that I was interested in but could not do well. But one thing is certain: I have loved to teach, and I never claimed to be a philosopher. I know very well that I am not a philosopher, except in one humble respect: I would love to have wisdom and understanding and I would love to impart it if I had it.

CAMPUS VISITORS

Three events this spring are bringing many visitors to the campus. High School Day, sponsored by the College and the Blount County Chamber of Commerce for the eighth year, will be held on the campus May 4. About six hundred seniors from all the high schools in the County attend.

On April 28 the East Tennessee Workshop of AAUW will meet in the Fine Arts Center with luncheon being served by the Home Economics Department. Approximately one hundred women are expected to come.

On March 15 and 16 the annual festival of the East Tennessee School Band and Orchestra Association was held for the first time on the Maryville campus. Beginning early Thursday morning swarms of high school, junior high, and elementary school students descended upon us. It was bedlam but apparently a happy, well-organized bedlam. On Thursday the assignments ran from 9:00 a. m. to 10:00 p. m. and on Friday from 8:00 a. m. to 6:00 p. m. Each band played three pieces in the chapel and then went to the theatre for sight reading. Then they were free to listen to the other bands or to explore the campus and community—and there wasn't a thing they missed. On the first day more than seventeen hundred students were here and on Friday a thousand. It was not a contest among bands but a judgment of their playing by standards of musical excellence. The ratings given are superior, excellent, good, average, and poor. Mr. Ralph Moore, of the Maryville music faculty, was in charge of the festival and was assisted by many other faculty members and a large number of students, who acted as guides, ushers, and doorkeepers.

On April 27, the first annual East Tennessee Education Association mathematics contest for high school students will be held and Maryville College, as one of the thirteen cooperating colleges, will serve as a testing center.

AN UNUSUAL GIFT

An interesting and valuable book has been given to the College by Mrs. Frank Jouvenat (Rosalie Edmondson, '27). It came to her from her great-grandfather, Gideon Stebbins White, who was graduated from Maryville in 1829. It is a copy of the First American Edition, printed in New York in 1796, of the "New Testament with Expository Notes and Practical Observations" by William Burkitt. On the flyleaf is written, "Nathaniel Beach's Book, Bought the 20th day of May 1797. Presented to the South Western Theological Seminary 1821."

Mrs. Jouvenat does not know how or when it came into her grandfather's possession. He was a Presbyterian minister in this general area for many years, and was a great admirer of Dr. Anderson and a loyal alumnus. In Dr. Wilson's history of the College it is recorded that Rev. G. W. White addressed the Alumni in 1857.

The book is a large one, sixteen by ten inches, and is in very good condition.

TEACHER CERTIFICATION

The Tennessee State Department of Education requirements for certification have been changed considerably for students who entered college after September 1, 1953. Maryville College has revised its teacher preparation curriculum in line with these new requirements and recently submitted a very complete and detailed description of the revised curriculum. Approval has been received from the State Department.

THE LLOYD ANNIVERSARY

The week end of November 5-6 was a genuine success. The Annual Homecoming, Founders' Day, and the Twenty-fifth Anniversary of President and Mrs. Lloyd's coming to Maryville were all celebrated as one big week end .

The Directors of the College held their annual fall meeting on Friday and Saturday morning and gave a dinner on Friday evening in the Dining Hall in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd. Ed Best presided in his inimitable style. The Rev. Dr. Clifford E. Barbour, one of the few Directors now on the Board who were on it when Dr. Lloyd was elected President, spoke for the Directors; Dean Hunter spoke for the faculty; Edgar Shackelford, President of the Student Body, represented the students of the College; David L. McArthur, President of the Alumni Association, spoke for the Alumni; and Earl W. Blazer, '30, represented the community.

The principal speaker at the Founders Day Convocation was the Honorable Fred A. Seaton, Deputy Assistant to President Eisenhower. An honorary degree was conferred upon him, and a citation of the Lloyds was read by the Chairman of the Board, Joe C. Gamble, '26.

The Homecoming Parade was the history of the College and of the Lloyds in the past twenty-five years. The floats, as usual, displayed much ingenuity. The prize-winning float depicted Dr. Lloyd as Moderator.

The barbecue was well attended by hundreds of Alumni and their families. We lost the football game that night with our arch-rivals, Carson-Newman, by a 13-20 score, but it was a thrilling game to watch.

Even the weatherman cooperated. It was a beautiful fall week end—Maryville and the Smokies at their best.

A lovely booklet published in honor of the Lloyds was given out to all alumni who were present. There are still a few of these left and the alumni office will be glad to send a copy to anyone who wishes one. Please enclose ten cents for cost of postage and envelope.

The booklet as well as the dinner and other expenses of the celebration was underwritten by an anonymous donor.

Honaker, Ted Engle, Dale Bradshaw, Harvey Rogers, Earl Smith, Pedro Myers, John West, Pat Flynn, Lynn Sexton, Coach Kenneth Johnson.

SPORT-LIGHT ON THE HILL

The winter sports season was a busy one, even though not an outstandingly successful one. The basketball team, pictured above, had plenty of fight, and lost many close decisions. A six foot, nine inch center would have come in handy!

The wrestling squad started with high hopes of a championship, but bad luck dogged the team from the beginning. Injuries necessitated the withdrawal of several certain point-winners, and the Scotties had to be content with fourth place in the Southeastern championships. Buford Miller set a real record, however, with his third championship in the past three years, with Jerry Waters copping his second and eying Buford's record next season.

The baseball team has won three of the first four, track is again triving on the Hill, and a strong tennis team is doing well. Schedules for the three spring sports are as follows:

CAMPUS EVENTS

Just to list the activities in this semester almost overwhelms one and perhaps will recall to all alumni their own busy college days. First of all are the February Meetings for nine days in early February. Wrestling and basketball are in full swing before and after the Meetings, ending in late February; baseball, track, and tennis practice start soon after that, with spring football practice following a little later. Sanroma, pianist, March 1, and the Mozarteum Orchestra from Austria, March 22, are the second semester Artists Series concerts. Several one-act plays (including "He Ain't Done Right By Nell" in which the audience participated most enthusiastically with hisses and cheers), "Beyond the Horizon" by Eugene O'Neill, and the Commencement Play "The Importance of Being Ernest" by Oscar Wilde, keep the theatre alive. The men's and women's glee clubs are giving "Finian's Rainbow" on April 6 and 7. Each month a new exhibit in the Art Gallery is introduced by a gallery talk. The exhibit opening on March 20 is of paintings and sculpture by Louise LeQuire, wife of Virgil LeQuire, '43, of Nashville. Incidentally, one of her portraits is of Lee Shine, son of Dr. and Mrs. Hill Shine. Dr. Shine taught English at Maryville from 1932 to 1945 and is now on the faculty of the University of Kentucky.

On February 16 and 17 the entire music faculty participated in a Mozart-Schumann Festival. There are frequent student recitals, and on March 31 the annual Fine Arts Competition for high school seniors was held.
